Summary

I am a motivated individual with a passion for web development and software development. Mainly I have focused on .NET technologies in tandem with C# and MVC. But I am also knowledgeable in web development, such as React, and PHP. I am very interested in joining an environment where I can learn more and grow with a team.

Highlighted Skills

Communication Skills - Assisted students in creative communications environments, helping group work transcend language barriers.

Strong Web Development Skills - With a background in JavaScript as well as being very confident in React, leveraged these skills in my work and personal projects.

Proficiency in C# - Created a school content management system using C# and a relational database following MVC principles.
